Award-winning wedding and event venue completes major expansion

CARLETON PLACE, June 10 2016. Stonefields has set the standard for elegant country weddings in the Ottawa area and is about to set it even higher with the completion of an exciting new project. The Stonefields Loft, a three-season event building complete with a state-of-the-art commercial kitchen, is now open to the public and already hosting unforgettable celebrations and events.

With the new building and kitchen, Stonefields offers an all-inclusive experience for wedding and private event clients, complete with in-house catering services offering a versatile collection of menus created by the Stonefields culinary team.

This new event building has extended the Stonefields season from the beginning of May through to the end of October and features a post and beam construction, lovingly restored by local craftsmen on the Stonefields estate from a local turn of the century barn. The building features a 1440 square foot covered verandah, polished concrete floors with radiant heating, 35-foot-high cathedral ceiling, endless French windows, doors and chandeliers, and elegant white-washed walls.

"This expansion project is exciting for the local economy, exciting for our clients, and thrilling for us," says Stephanie Brown, co-owner. "We look forward to creating a personalized, unique experience for everyone who chooses to hold their event at Stonefields."

These projects are the latest in a string of recent enhancements to the property. Stonefields is thrilled about this new venture and looks forward to continuing to deliver world-class wedding packages to clients from around the globe.
